

Annie Levergood loved being in our shows. Even when her problems with Macular Degeneration made it difficult for her to see on-stage, she was game and with the help of other cast members, she participated. She and her husband, Jack, were wonderful additions to Village Players. She appeared in several shows and Jack worked on sets. Later, when Annie's sight deteriorated even more, she still came with Jack to every production. She always sat in the front row, to hear well and to see whatever she could with her limited vision. After she and Jack moved to Laconia to be in an assisted living facility, they could no longer attend, but they were generous donors, happy to help VP in its work to renovate our building.
