

John was a welcome addition to our group, though he was only with us for a few years. He played one of the pirates and one of the policemen in The Pirates of Penzance, and later as a sailor in South Pacific, shown in the photos above.

His biggest most extensive role was as Kralahome, the king's advisor in The King and I and you see him in his Siamese costume for that role in the main photo.

John also worked backstage, helping to build sets. Always quiet and low-key, he helped us grow in many ways and was always a pleasure to work with.